FORCED BY GRAND JURY.

Paris-Lexington Interurban Line Stands to Be Fined $180,000 On Technical Charge.

THE BOURBON NEWS, a short time since, called the attention of its readers to the fact that the Paris-Lexington interurban road was violating the separate coach law by allowing colored passengers to ride in the same coach with the whites. The item has had its effect. In anticipation of an indictment by the grand jury, now in session, by which they stand liable to a fine of $500 and possibly $180,000, the company put the "Jim Crow" law into practice Wednesday. The compartment heretofore used as a smoker by the male passengers, was converted into a compartment for negroes. The president of the company, Mr. Y. Alexander, was summoned before the Bourbon grand jury, on Wednesday.

The Circuit Court up to its adjournment for Thanksgiving had made no indictment. The court will not meet again till Tuesday. It is the general opinion that the grand jury will fail to indict, but will admonish the road that they must be careful in obeying the law in the future. The line has been in operation something like twenty days, and should the road have to pay the limit, it would amount to $500 for each offence, or a total of fines which would aggregate $180,000. It is now up to the interurban "to be good."

Circuit Court.

On Thursday, James Powers was fined $100 and five days in jail for whipping John Moran, the 12-year-old son of Thos. Moran. The prison sentence was suspended.

Dan Chinn, for forgery, was acquitted.

Case of the Commonwealth vs. Kentucky Distillery and Warehouse Company, was set for the tenth day of the term, Dec. 3.

Commonwealth vs. Jim Fields, who was indicted for malicious cutting, with intent to kill, and Will Fisher, on the same charge, and Luther McCoy, detaining a woman against her will, and Joe McAfee, housebreaking, were all arraigned and cases assigned for next Wednesday. They are all colored.

Court adjourned Wednesday, on account of Thanksgiving, to meet again next Tuesday.

The grand jury adjourned yesterday to meet again this morning.

Foot Ball.

A large crowd witnessed the foot-ball at Lexington, yesterday. The Kentucky University team defeated the Kentucky State College by a score of 17 to 0.

FALSE REPORT.—It being reported that Dr. H. H. Roberts, of Lexington, had sold his handsome residence on North Broadway, and would take a trip to Europe for the benefit of Mrs. Roberts' health, caused a reporter for The News to call on the Doctor while in Lexington. The Doctor admitted that the report was in circulation, but emphatically denied that he was going away from Lexington, saying his wife and son were enjoying good health and that his office practice was all that he could desire or expect.

A FALSE RUMOR.—The rumor that was circulated yesterday to the effect that the Cedric, the ship on which Miss Naumie Clay, of this county, was a passenger, had sunk at sea, was a mistake. A New York dispatch says that the ship had been sighted at 3:05 yesterday morning. This dispels the rumor that it was sunken. It is due in New this morning.
